Virtual Dance Producer is a freeware tool to record and mix dance music in a professional and creative way. This program is suited for all types of house, techno, trance, electro, hard house, big room, progressive, techno, ethereal, minimal techno, break, chill-out, moombahton, and more. All the bass, leads, drums, synths, and other sounds can be easily recorded with the built-in mic and you can add other sounds or create professional beats with the pre-built templates. You can also choose one or more of the over one thousand presets and use their sounds to make your music. Audio delay appears in the lower frequencies, significantly reducing the sound of guitars and other instruments. You can now adjust the speed of the delay effect to create an endless variety of sounds and effects. A set of preset sounds for each mode is also available. You can get the presets from the tab "Default". Audio Delay is the effect that imitates the sound of tape, vinyl, or other records, it appears with different names: audio dasher, vinyl sound, etc. The effect was brought out by tape or vinyl records in the past. In the digital era, this effect was combined with instrument synthesizers, because instruments records and a sequencer also store information in long lengths of tape or vinyl records. Therefore, the musical effect of a tape appeared on a musical instrument. Affects the pitch of the frequency of an audio signal by delay and forward the signal by time, creating a flanging effect. Frequency Sidechain is a plugin that allows you to generate with the external sound wave a combination of sounds, the kind of sound that is heard through a speaker. With the frequency, you can make a great variety of sounds and effects. Instrument emulation is a technique that hides or simulates the sound of another sound instrument in order to create a new sound. This kind of sound is used in trance, techno, electronic and industrial music genres. That method has been used even in the classic rock and jazz scene, such as in the Beatles' songs, but it was mostly with chords and beats in the rhythm box. The auto-pan effect is one of the most effective synthesizers in virtually all types of music. This plugin creates a very advanced panning effect in 2 or 4 voices, and you can take control over the sound. Convert your DAW into a live performance platform. Plug-In Live allows
